REPORT.

TO THE QUEEN'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR GRACIOUS MAJESTY,

1. We, the Commissioners of Charitable Donations and Bequests for Ireland, appointed under an Act passed in the 7th and 8th years of your Majesty's reign, entitled "An Act for the more effectual Application of Charitable Donations and Bequests in Ireland," humbly beg leave to submit to your Majesty this our Thirty-second Annual Report.

2. Since the date of our last Report twenty-nine meetings have been summoned, and of these two only have been ineffectual for want of the necessary quorum. This regularity in our meetings has enabled us to despatch a large amount of business, and we have made 326 orders in various matters affecting charities and charity property, besides providing for the regular issue of the sums payable to the charities under our control.

3. Notwithstanding that we have instituted legal proceedings in several important and complicated cases, the amount of the solicitor's costs for the past year was only £253 13s. 2d., of which but £8 8s. 11d., appears to be irrecoverable.

4. We continue to pay to the Exchequer £41 18s. 4d., being the annual dividend on an old endowment, from private sources, placed in the hands of the late Board in 1815, "to assist them in recovering embezzled charities;" this is not required for that purpose, so long as costs incurred, and not otherwise realized, are paid out of the Parliamentary vote.

5. We have been able to confer substantial benefits on several charitable institutions by authorizing the Trustees to sell portions of the charity property which were unproductive, and by empowering them to grant leases in excess of their original powers, for the purpose of permanently improving the charity property, as well as by sanctioning compromises in cases where serious litigation was threatened.

6. By a sale of some house property in the city of Armagh, which had been for many years not available, we have realised for the endowment left by the late Primate Boulter for four widows of curates in the diocese of Armagh, a further sum of £473. This has been invested, and we have now standing in our names in this charity a total sum of £3,216 4s. 8d., Government New Three per Cent. Stock.

7. In another endowment, instituted for the benefit of the widows of clergymen in the diocese of Down, we succeeded in having restored to the charity a sum of £3,000. We have also certified a case to your Majesty's Attorney-General, in relation to the same charity, with a view to his taking such steps as he may think proper.

8. We have been in communication with the Trustees of the Will of the late Right Honorable Lord Blaney, in reference to a sum of £5,000 bequeathed by him for the purpose of erecting almshouses near the town of Castleblaney, in the county of Monaghan, and also in reference to a further sum of £15,000 left for their maintenance and support. We regret that these bequests have not as yet led to any practical result, but the delay has mainly arisen from the difficulty experienced in procuring a suitable site, and we have reason to believe that this difficulty has now been overcome, and that the building will be proceeded with with all reasonable despatch.

9. In our last Report we stated that we had commenced proceedings in the Court of Chancery for the purpose of having a scheme framed for the application of the income of a property in the counties of Meath and Longford, producing nearly £800 a year, and devised in 1792 by Mr. Thomas Charlton, with the object of providing marriage portions for the sons and daughters of day labourers in the above-named and adjacent counties. These proceedings have now been brought to a close, and a scheme has been framed by the Court, which, while guarding the rights and giving priority to those who fulfil all the conditions required by the Testator's Will, provides for the application of the surplus income in a manner calculated to extend the benefits of the charity to a large class of persons who were heretofore unable to avail themselves of them. The sum payable as a marriage portion to each person, limited in amount by the Testator's Will to £6 6s. (late Irish currency), has been increased to £25 of the present currency, in the first instance, for claimants fulfilling the original conditions, and, after providing for these, a certificate of any lawfully celebrated marriage will entitle applicants who shall fulfil all the other conditions required by the scheme, to participate in the benefits of the charity. The charity had been so long in abeyance, that a sum of £5,443 12s. 4d. stock and £1,333 15s. 9d. cash accumulated in the hands of the Accountant-General of the Court of Chancery, and, after payment of the costs of the necessary proceedings, the interest of this fund will be applied to supplement that portion of the income of the charity which is derived from land.

10. The decree of the Court of Chancery (while reserving to that Court the active control and administration of this charity) has transferred to the Board the carriage of the future proceedings in connexion with it. We trust that this scheme as now settled, will result in the benevolent intentions of the founder being carried out.

11. We have for some years been administering an endowment left by the Will of the late Roger Palmer, esq., for the purpose of paying marriage portions to girls of the poorest class on the Testator's estate near the village of Rush, in the county of Dublin. This endowment was for a considerable period withheld from the purposes for which it was intended, and it became necessary to institute proceedings in the Court of Chancery in order to have it restored to its proper objects. For some time, owing to the want of care on the part of the persons charged with its local administration, the working of this charity was highly unsatisfactory; hasty, improvident, and ill-assorted marriages were contracted, in some instances ending in desertion on the part of the husband. To guard against the recurrence of these abuses, we framed some stringent regulations, which have been carried out to our complete satisfaction by the present local clergymen, whose duty it is to select and recommend the persons who are to be the recipients of the fund. The result has been that the charity has now been placed on a satisfactory footing. The amount paid as a portion to each woman for the last seven or eight years has been £18 14s. 7d.

12. We also administer another charity of a similar kind in the city of Kilkenny, under a bequest left by the Will of the late Mr. Louis Chappelliere, and we have learned that this too has been, under judicious management, producing satisfactory results.

13. During the past year four or five cases have been brought under our notice, in which, from change of circumstances, long lapse of time, or other causes, it became impracticable to carry out the original intentions of Testators in respect to their endowments for charitable purposes. As each of these fell within the limit of our own powers, we were able, at a trifling expense to the fund, to direct their application to some kindred objects. Before giving our final sanction, we caused ample public notice to be given in the localities in which the bequests were to be applied, with a view of affording facilities for offering objections. This branch of our jurisdiction, which has been exercised for nearly ten years, has been attended with satisfactory results.

14. We hope that, according as the facilities for transferring charitable trust funds to us become better known, private persons in whose names they stand will be more anxious to avail themselves of the advantages of placing them under our guardianship.

15. Cases have been brought under our notice in which the administration of certain charitable institutions appeared to us to be, if not absolutely negligent, extremely defective. We have addressed such representations to the Trustees and Managers as, we believe, will have the effect of placing their administration on a more careful and satisfactory footing.

16. In the month of August of the present year arrest or imprisonment for debt as such will absolutely cease. In our last Report we adverted to the difficulties we had experienced in administering some bequests left for the benefit of persons confined for debt, on account of the change, partial as it was, which had taken place in the law of arrest. In contemplation of its entire abolition at the period we have named, and the consequent impossibility of any longer being able to carry out the intentions of the Testators, we suggested to your Majesty's Government to introduce into the Bill, now before Parliament, for the regulation of Prisons in Ireland, a clause enabling us to apply these bequests to other objects of a kindred nature. Our suggestion has been acted on, and should the Legislature sanction the proposal, we shall hope to apply these bequests to purposes useful and beneficial.

17. The account of the various sums passing through our hands arising from charitable donations and bequests, for the year ended December 31, 1875, which we stated in our last Report had been lodged with the Master in Chancery for audit, has since then been examined and settled and declared by him, and has been lodged with the Clerk of the Privy Council, in conformity with the Act of Parliament passed in the 7th and 8th years of your Majesty's reign, chapter 97.

The similar account for the year ending December 31, 1876, has also been duly lodged for audit.

18. Accounts of the sum voted by Parliament have been regularly furnished by us, in accordance with the forms adopted under the direction of the Treasury, and the provisions of the "Exchequer and Audit Departments Act, 1866;" and our Appropriation Account for the year ending March 31, 1876, has been certified to be correct by the Auditor-General of Public Accounts.

19. The total amount of the trust funds which were under our care and control in cash, and vested in Government and other securities, on the 31st December last, as well as the annual amount of rents and annuities under our control, will be found set forth in the second Schedule.

All which we submit as our Report, and in testimony thereof have caused our corporate seal to be hereto affixed, this 11th day of July, 1877.
